PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Plaintiff Flo & Eddie, Inc. (“Flo & Eddie”) hereby applies to the Court ex parte for a lifting of the stay for the purpose of entering: (1) an order restraining and enjoining Sirius XM Radio, Inc. (“Sirius XM”) from paying the Settlement Fund (as defined below) to the Major Labels (as defined below) and instead requiring that the Settlement Fund be paid into an interest-bearing account under the control and direction of this Court; (2) an order imposing a lien on the Settlement Fund in favor of Class Counsel and preserving that fund until the Court has an opportunity to address Class Counsel’s fee application; (3) an order permitting discovery regarding the settlement; and (4) an order barring Sirius

1 XM and its counsel from having direct or indirect communication with any Class 2 member.

3 This Application is made pursuant to All Writs Act (28 U.S.C. § 1651), Fed.
4 R. Civ. P. 65, Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct Rule 2-100, and the common fund and 5 substantial benefit doctrines on the grounds that (1) Sirius XM’s conduct is a threat 6 to this Court’s jurisdiction over the Class, and (2) the Major Labels are not entitled 7 to the entirety of the Settlement Fund, as both other members of the Class and Class 8 Counsel have cognizable claims to portions thereof. Accordingly, before the 9 Settlement Fund can be disbursed by Sirius XM, these competing third party claims 10 to the fund must be properly adjudicated.

11 Relief cannot be sought via a regularly noticed motion because Sirius XM 12 announced on June 26, 2015 that it intends to pay out the Settlement Fund to the 13 Major Labels on or before July 15, 2015, thereby leaving insufficient time to 14 comply with the time requirements set forth for fully noticed and briefed motions.<sup>1</sup> 15 Ex parte relief is thus warranted, and Flo & Eddie respectfully requests that the 16 Court grant this Application.

17 Pursuant to Local Rules 7-19 and 7-19.1 and this Court’s Standing Order, 18 Class Counsel gave oral and written notice of this ex parte Application to:

26 <sup>1</sup> Sirius XM has since indicated in an e-mail to Class Counsel that the Settlement
27 Fund will not be paid until July 31, 2015; however, that still does not leave 28 sufficient time to comply with the time requirements for fully noticed and briefed motions.

1 I. INTRODUCTION.

2 In a brazen attempt to disrupt and interfere with the class action process and 3 the Court’s jurisdiction under Rule 23, after the Court granted Flo & Eddie, Inc.’s 4 (“Flo & Eddie”) motion for class certification, Sirius XM Radio, Inc. (“Sirius XM”) 5 and the major record companies (the “Major Labels”) – who are all members of the 6 class – participated in a private mediation from which Sirius XM excluded Class 7 Counsel and the remaining Class members. The exclusion of Class Counsel after 8 class certification was granted was in direct violation of Cal. Rules of Prof. Conduct 9 2-100. But worse, the attendees at the mediation – Sirius XM’s inside and outside 10 counsel, representatives from the Major Labels, and lawyers from Sidley & Austin 11 (“Sidley”) and the Recording Industry Association of America (“RIAA”) – then 12 proceeded to negotiate a settlement whereby Sirius XM agreed to pay $210 million 13 to the Major Labels (the “Settlement Fund”) not only to settle claims arising out of 14 Sirius XM’s use of pre-1972 recordings which the Major Labels “own,” but also to 15 settle claims for the use of pre-1972 recordings which the Major Labels “control or 16 otherwise have the right to contract with.” In other words, Sirius XM and the Major 17 Labels purported to settle claims for the use of pre-1972 recordings owned by other 18 Class members, and by doing so usurped the role of the Court and Class Counsel.

19 The terms of that settlement – which excludes other owners of pre-1972
20 recordings and Class Counsel from sharing in any portion of it – were kept secret 21 until Sirius XM filed its Form 8-K with the Securities & Exchange Commission
22 (“SEC”) on June 26, 2015. (Gradstein Decl. ¶ 14, Ex. 1) The settlement raises a 23 number of serious issues that require an immediate lifting of the stay for the purpose 24 of emergency relief requiring Sirius XM to deposit the Settlement Fund with the 25 Court while the Court has an opportunity to address at least the following issues.

26 First, the settlement resulted directly from a violation of the Rules of 27 Professional Conduct. Once a class has been certified, the rules governing 28 communications apply as though each class member is a client of the Class Counsel.

1 Kleiner v. First National Bank of Atlanta, 751 F.2d 1193, 1207 n.28 (11th Cir.
2 1985) (citing Van Gemert v. Boeing Co., 590 F.2d 433, 440 n.15 (2nd Cir.
3 1978), aff'd, 444 U.S. 472 (1980)); Parks v. Eastwood Ins. Servs., Inc., 235 F. Supp.
4 2d 1082, 1083 (C.D. Cal. 2002). That means that counsel for Sirius XM was not 5 permitted to have direct settlement communications with the Major Labels after 6 May 27, 2015, or any other Class members without Class Counsel being present or 7 without approval of the Court. Hernandez v. Vitamin Shoppe Industries Inc., 174 Cal.
8 App. 4th 1441, 1459 (2009).

9 Second, according to Sirius XM's 8-K filing, the settlement with the Major 10 Labels includes pre-1972 recordings that the Major Labels do not own and which, 11 therefore, belong to other members of the Class. Indeed, as described by Sirius XM, 12 the settlement extends to recordings that the Major Labels "control" and recordings 13 that they "otherwise have the right to contract with." By definition, those recordings 14 are owned by other Class members represented by Class Counsel. It would appear 15 that Sirius XM used the Major Labels as a substitute for dealing with Class Counsel.
16 That is not proper as none of the participants in the mediation had the right to 17 circumvent Class Counsel, do an end run around the Rule 23 procedural 18 requirements with respect to the settlement of class actions, or marginalize this 19 Court's role in the settlement of Class claims.

20 Third, the Major Labels' attempt to exclude Class Counsel from the 21 settlement (and obtain a fee based upon that settlement) runs directly afoul of the 22 rules governing compensation of Class Counsel, including the common fund and 23 substantial benefit doctrines. Class Counsel is entitled to their fee under these 24 doctrines whether or not the Class was certified, but it most certainly was entitled to 25 its fee because the Class was certified. See Sprague v. Ticonic Nat'l Bank, 307 U.S.
26 161, 166-67 (1939); Boeing Co. v. Van Gemert et al., 444 U.S. 472, 478, 100 S. Ct.
27 745, 749 (1980); see also Vincent v. Hughes Air West, Inc., 557 F.2d 759 (9th Cir.
28 1977). Given that Class Counsel was solely responsible for the decisions and orders

GRADSTEIN & MARZANO, P.C.
6310 SAN VICENTE BLVD, SUITE 510
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA 90048
TELEPHONE: 323-776-3100

1 that resulted in the settlement (and did all of the work necessary to obtain those 2 decisions and orders), the exclusion of Class Counsel in the settlement is the 3 epitome of the “incipient free-rider problem” that the First Circuit highlighted in In 4 re Nineteen Appeals Arising Out of the San Juan Dupont Plaza Hotel Fire Litig., 5 982 F.2d 603, 606 (1st Cir. 1992).

6 Because Sirius XM stated in its 8-K filing that it intends to pay out the 7 Settlement Fund by July 15, 2015,<sup>2</sup> emergency relief is necessary in order to 8 preserve the fund and to bring transparency to the settlement itself. Accordingly, Flo 9 & Eddie seeks a lifting of the stay for the limited purpose of obtaining: (1) an order 10 restraining and enjoining Sirius XM from paying the Settlement Fund to the Major 11 Labels and instead requiring that the Settlement Fund be paid into an interest-12 bearing account under the control and direction of this Court; (2) an order imposing

14 of that fund until the Court has an opportunity to address Class Counsel’s fee

18 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS.

19 Sirius XM exploits – without license – pre-1972 recordings as part of its 20 satellite and internet services. Accordingly, on August 1, 2013, Flo & Eddie filed 21 suit against it, alleging on behalf of itself and a class of owners of pre-1972 22 recordings claims for violation of Cal. Civ. Code § 980(a)(2), misappropriation, 23 conversion, and unfair competition under Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200. Since 24 pre-1972 recordings are governed on a state-by-state basis, Flo & Eddie also filed 25 two additional federal class actions: one in New York on August 16, 2013, Flo & 26

27 _____
28 <sup>2</sup> Counsel for Sirius XM has stated in an e-mail to Class Counsel that this date is now July 31, 2015. (Gradstein Decl., ¶ 18)

1 Eddie, Inc. v. Sirius XM Radio, Inc., S.D.N.Y., 13-CIV-5784 (CM) (the “New York
2 Action”), and one in Florida on September 3, 2013, *Flo & Eddie, Inc. v. Sirius XM
3 Radio, Inc.*, S.D. Fla., Case No. 13-CV -23182 (DPG) (the “Florida Action”).

4 After Flo & Eddie filed these three actions, on September 11, 2013, the Major 5 Labels filed a lawsuit in Los Angeles Superior Court entitled *Capitol Records LLC,
6 et al. v. Sirius XM Radio Inc.*, L.A.S.C. Case No. BC520981 (the “Coattail 7 Action”).<sup>3</sup> The Coattail Action asserted the same claims as the instant action and 8 was brought only with respect to pre-1972 recordings owned by the Major Labels.
9 (Geller Decl. ¶ 8, Ex. 1 [Capitol Records Complaint 2:26-28, 10:19-23, 13:18-10 19]). The Coattail Action did not purport to seek damages for pre-1972 recordings 11 “controlled” by the Major Labels or for pre-1972 recordings that the Major Labels 12 “otherwise have the right to contract with.”

13 Either because they were impatient or because they did not want to devote the 14 resources to properly prosecuting the Coattail Action, even before Sirius XM filed 15 its Answer, the Major Labels attempted to have the ultimate issue in their case 16 decided; namely, whether California law recognizes a digital performance right in 17 pre-1972 sound recordings. Thus, prior to conducting any discovery or engaging in 18 any other action that would position the Coattail Action for a successful resolution, 19 the Major Labels filed a motion “for a jury instruction regarding a digital 20 performance right.” This motion was an ill-conceived strategic blunder that nearly 21 resulted in a disastrous ruling for the owners of pre-1972 recordings and the artists 22 who depend on those recordings for royalties. Indeed, on August 27, 2014, Judge 23 Mary Strobel issued a “Tentative Ruling” denying the Major Labels motion and 24 concluding in the process that there was no performance right in pre-1972 25 recordings under either Cal. Civ. Code § 980(a)(2) or the common law of California.

26 _____
27 <sup>3</sup> The plaintiffs in the Coattail Action are identified as Capitol Records, LLC, Sony 28 Music Entertainment, UMG Recordings, Inc., Warner Music Group Corp., and ABKCO Music & Records, Inc.

1           Fortunately, Flo & Eddie and Class Counsel did not take such a shortsighted
2 approach to their three actions. While the Major Labels were doing nothing, Class
3 Counsel was investing significant time and resources in establishing Sirius XM's 4 liability. Class Counsel conducted extensive discovery (which it shared with the 5 Major Labels pursuant to a September 11, 2013 Common Interest Agreement), 6 engaged in significant motion practice, prepared damages models supported by 7 expert testimony, and positioned each of its cases so that the underlying legal and 8 factual issues could be properly presented in fully briefed motions for summary 9 judgment, resulting in successful liability rulings in the California Action, Flo &
10 Eddie Inc. v. Sirius XM Radio Inc., 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 139053 (C.D. Cal. Sept.
11 22, 2014), and in the New York Action, Flo & Eddie, Inc. v. Sirius XM Radio, Inc., 12 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 166492 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 14, 2014) and Flo & Eddie, Inc. v.
13 Sirius XM Radio, Inc., 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 174907 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 12, 2014).

14           Once Class Counsel's work resulted in a favorable liability ruling in the 15 California Action, the Major Labels took full advantage of that ruling in the Coattail 16 Action. Indeed, on September 23, 2014 (the day after this Court's order issued), the 17 Major Labels filed that ruling with Judge Strobel and asked her to take judicial 18 notice of it. Judge Strobel did more than take judicial notice of it: she specifically 19 adopted it, changed her tentative ruling, and on October 14, 2014, issued a ruling in 20 favor of the Major Labels. (Dkt. 132-1) That ruling, however, was limited to 21 finding the jury instruction proper; it did not decide any of the liability issues and 22 left them for another day. Since Judge Strobel's ruling, nothing has happened in the 23 Coattail Action as it was largely stayed while Sirius XM unsuccessfully sought 24 relief from the California Court of Appeals and the California Supreme Court.

25           While the Coattail Action remained stayed, Class Counsel was continuing to 26 prosecute all three Flo & Eddie actions, including by filing a motion for class 27 certification in the California Action. That motion was set for hearing on May 22, 28 2015. Counsel for Sirius XM understood that, if the class was certified, the Major

1 Labels were part of that class and this meant that liability was already decided in 2 their favor as a result of the earlier summary judgment decision in the California 3 Action. Indeed, counsel for Sirius XM expressly relied on that scenario in arguing 4 against class certification based on the one-way intervention rule, stating:

5 [We] have completely lost the protections of and have been 6 grievously prejudiced now by the way that this has played out.
7 Because look, for example, the situation with the record
8 companies, the four major record companies that filed their own 9 lawsuit one month after this suit was filed in the state court. They 10 are going to – that case doesn't have any advance to discovery.
11 There's no trial dates set. All they had is a ruling in their favor 12 on a jury instruction.

13 THE COURT: But it was postured fairly strangely.

14 MR. PETROCELLI: Excuse me?

15 THE COURT: It was postured strangely.

16 MR. PETROCELLI: I agree with that. And one of the issues that 17 I'm going to litigate in that case is that posture. But my point is 18 that they can now wait and see, having – they were able to wait 19 and see, having now seen that this Court has made the 20 performance right determination in the favor of the plaintiff, they 21 may decide – although we would object to this, of course – I'll 22 just opt into this case, or I won't opt out of this case, and hey, my 23 case is like long behind this case. Now I got to see the result.
24 It's a free look, and now I'm going to go in and try to be part of 25 this class that's going to trial presumably in August.

26 (Geller Decl. ¶ 9, Ex. 2 [May 22, 2015, Hearing Transcript 21:1-22])

27 On May 27, 2015, the Court granted Flo & Eddie's motion for class 28 certification, certified a class of owners of pre-1972 recordings (the "Class"), and

1 appointed Class Counsel. (Dkt. 225) Despite recognizing at the hearing that this 2 meant that the Major Labels were part of the Class, counsel for Sirius XM 3 apparently failed to appreciate the significance of that ruling as it pertains to direct 4 communications with Class members. Indeed, sometime prior to the Class 5 certification ruling, counsel for Sirius XM had secretly begun coordinating with the 6 RIAA to schedule a mediation with the Major Labels alone. Neither Sirius XM, the 7 Major Labels, nor the RIAA elected to disclose the existence of this mediation to 8 counsel for Flo & Eddie. However, on May 7, 2015, after the class certification 9 motion was fully briefed, counsel for Sirius XM revealed for the first time to 10 counsel for Flo & Eddie that a mediation had been scheduled with the Major Labels.
11 (Geller Decl. ¶ 2) When counsel for Flo & Eddie insisted that they be part of the 12 mediation, counsel for Sirius XM objected, claiming that Sirius XM wanted to use 13 the mediation to discuss a going-forward relationship and not damages for the past.
14 Counsel for Sirius XM did not change its position even after the Court issued its 15 ruling on May 27 certifying the Class and appointing G&M as Class Counsel. The 16 only thing that counsel for Sirius XM would agree to is to have a separate mediation 17 with Class Counsel after the conclusion of the mediation with the Major Labels.
18 (Geller Decl. ¶¶ 3-7)

19 On June 15 and 16, 2015, Sirius XM mediated with the Major Labels and the 20 RIAA in New York. Class Counsel was in New York prepared to participate in that 21 mediation, but continued to be excluded. (Gradstein Decl. ¶¶ 10-13) On June 17, 22 2015, Sirius XM supposedly reached an agreement with the Major Labels; however, 23 the participants in that mediation (including the RIAA) refused to disclose its terms 24 to Class Counsel. (Gradstein Decl. ¶ 13) The participants took this position even 25 though (1) Sirius XM knew that it was obligated to make those terms public, (2) the 26 Major Labels were purporting to settle claims for recordings owned by absent Class 27 members, and (3) the RIAA is a trade association for the recorded music industry 28

1 and lists on its website more members than just the Major Labels.<sup>4</sup> The immediate 2 effect of this secret mediation was to dramatically impact the rights of the entire 3 Class and Class Counsel, completely usurping this Court’s role in managing the 4 Class that it had just certified.

5 On June 26, 2015, Sirius XM finally made the terms of its settlement with the 6 Major Labels public in its 8-K filing. As set forth by Sirius XM in that filing:

7 On June 17, 2015, our subsidiary, Sirius XM Radio Inc., entered 8 into an agreement with Capitol Records LLC, Sony Music
9 Entertainment, UMG Recordings, Inc., Warner Music Group
10 Corp. and ABKCO Music & Records, Inc. to settle the case 11 titled Capitol Records LLC et al. v. Sirius XM Radio Inc., No.
12 BC-520981 (Super. Ct. L.A. County), which challenged our use 13 of sound recordings fixed prior to February 15, 1972 (“pre-1972 14 recordings”). Pursuant to the settlement, we will pay the 15 plaintiffs, in the aggregate, $210 million on or before July 15, 16 2015 and the plaintiffs will dismiss their lawsuit with prejudice.
17 The settlement resolves all past claims as to our use of pre-1972 18 recordings owned or controlled by the plaintiffs and enables us, 19 without any additional payment, to reproduce, perform and 20 broadcast such recordings in the United States through December 21 31, 2017. As part of the settlement, we have the right, to be 22 exercised before December 31, 2017, to enter into a license with 23 each plaintiff to reproduce, perform and broadcast its pre-1972
24 recordings from January 1, 2018 through December 31, 2022.
25 The royalty rate for each such license will be determined by 26 negotiation or, if the parties are unable to agree, binding

1 arbitration. The plaintiffs have represented and warranted to us 2 that in the United States they own, control or otherwise have the 3 right to contract with respect to approximately 80% of the pre-4 1972 recordings we have historically used.

5 (Gradstein Decl. ¶ 14, Ex. 1) It bears noting that in 2012, David Frear, Sirius 6 XM’s chief financial officer, testified before the Copyright Royalty Board that the 7 percentage of sound recordings owned by the “four ‘major’ record companies” 8 based on “identified spins,” was 59%. See Written Rebuttal Testimony of David 9 Frear, June 29, 2012, In the Matter of Determination of Rates and Terms For 10 [SDARS]. (Dkt 203-1.)

11 To date, Sirius XM has refused to offer the same settlement terms to the other 12 members of the class. (Gradstein Decl. ¶ 15) In addition, the Major Labels and 13 Sirius XM have refused to provide Class Counsel with a copy of their settlement 14 agreement or a list of the pre-1972 recordings it covers. Id.

15 III. SIRIUS XM WAS NOT PERMITTED TO EXCLUDE CLASS
16 COUNSEL FROM THE MEDIATION WITH THE MAJOR LABELS.

17 Under the law, this Court’s May 27, 2015 class certification order 18 automatically carried with it the restriction that if counsel for Sirius XM wanted to 19 have direct settlement discussions with any members of the class, it could only do so 20 with the permission of Class Counsel or the Court. Hernandez, 174 Cal. App. 4th 21 1441, 1459 (2009).<sup>5</sup> Thus, what might have been proper prior to May 27, 2015, was 22 now no longer proper. Far from complying with this change in circumstances, 23 counsel for Sirius XM continued to bar Class Counsel’s participation in settlement 24 _____

25 <sup>5</sup> Attorneys practicing in this Court are governed by “standards of professional 26 conduct required of members of the State Bar of California and contained in the 27 State Bar Act, the Rules of Professional Conduct of the State Bar of California, and 28 the decisions of any court applicable thereto.” See C.D. Cal. Loc. R. 83-3.1.2; White
v. Experian Info. Solutions, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61433, *15-16 (C.D. Cal. May 1, 2014).

1 discussions with the Major Labels and never sought permission from the Court to 2 have those discussions. By doing that, counsel for Sirius XM ran afoul of the no 3 contact rule set forth in Cal. R. of Prof. Conduct 2-100(A).

4 Indeed, one of the most basic rules of professional responsibility is that 5 “while representing a client, a member shall not communicate directly or indirectly 6 about the subject of the representation with a party the member knows to be 7 represented by another lawyer in the matter, unless the member has the consent of 8 the other lawyer.” Cal. R. of Prof. Conduct 2-100(A). This rule was “designed to 9 permit an attorney to function adequately in his proper role and to prevent the 10 opposing attorney from impeding his performance in such role” and is “necessary to 11 the preservation of the attorney-client relationship and the proper functioning of the 12 administration of justice...” Mitton v. State Bar of Cal., 71 Cal. 2d 525, 534 (1969).

13 The no contact rule applies to class actions as well. Once a class has been 14 certified, defense counsel may not contact its members without the prior consent of 15 either Class Counsel or the court. Hernandez, 174 Cal. App. 4th at 1459 (holding 16 that conditional class certification triggered no contact rule); Fidel v. National 17 Union Fire Ins. Co., 1996 U.S. App. LEXIS 33388, at *22 (9th Cir. Aug. 7, 1996)
18 (“The attorney-client relationship between Class Counsel and appellants began, at a 19 minimum, when the class was certified”); Jacobs v. CSAA Inter-Insurance, 2009 U.S.
20 Dist. LEXIS 37153, at *5 (N.D. Cal. May 1, 2009) (“After a court has certified a class, 21 communication with class members regarding the subject of representation must be 22 through counsel for the class.”); Parks, 235 F. Supp. 2d at 1083 (“Defendants’ 23 attorneys are subject to the ‘anti-contact’ rule, and must ‘refrain from discussing the 24 litigation with members of the class as of the date of class certification.”) (quoting 25 Kleiner, 751 F.2d at 1207 n.28 (11th Cir. 1985)); Van Gemert v. Boeing Co., 590 F.2d 26 433, 440 n.15 (2d Cir. 1978) (en banc) (“A certification under Rule 23(c) makes the 27 Class the attorney’s client for all practical purposes.”); Resnick v. ADA, 95 F.R.D.

1 372, 376 (N.D. Ill. 1982) (“Without question the unnamed class members, once the 2 class has been certified, are ‘represented by’ the Class Counsel.”)

3 Moreover, the no contact rule does not cease to exist merely because defense 4 counsel wishes to make a settlement offer to individual class members – even if those 5 class members have their own individual counsel or are maintaining individual actions.
6 In re Shell Oil Refinery, 152 F.R.D. 526, 536 (E.D. LA 1989) (“Defense counsel 7 have an ethical obligation to make any offers of individual settlement to the [plaintiff 8 Class Counsel], as well as any additional counsel that might have been retained by the 9 class member.”); In re Airline Ticket Comm’n Antitrust Litig., 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10 20361, at *8 (D. Minn. Aug. 12, 1996) (“Clearly agencies as large as those involved 11 here have, and regularly use, their own attorneys. These attorneys, however, are not the 12 agencies’ appointed counsel in this case.”); Negrete v. Allianz Life Ins. Co. of N. Am., 13 926 F. Supp. 2d 1143, 1157-58 (C.D. Cal. 2013) (maintenance of a separate lawsuit 14 initiated prior to an opt-out period does not serve as an opt-out).

15 Here, the violation of the no contact rule by counsel for Sirius XM has resulted 16 in a settlement agreement that prejudices the rights of the absent Class members by 17 purporting to settle and release their claims, interferes with counsel’s performance 18 of its role as Class Counsel to obtain a fair recovery for all Class members, and 19 interferes with Class Counsel’s right to be compensated for its work. Counsel for 20 Sirius XM was not communicating with class members who had properly opted out 21 of the Class (the period for which had yet to even occur); rather, counsel improperly 22 communicated with them in order to procure their opt-out.

23 IV. AS DISCLOSED BY SIRIUS XM, THE SETTLEMENT IS BROADER 24 THAN RECORDINGS OWNED BY THE MAJOR LABELS.

25 Neither Sirius XM nor the Major Labels have provided a copy of their 26 settlement agreement to Class Counsel or a list of the pre-1972 recordings covered 27 by that agreement. However, Sirius XM’s 8-K filing reveals that the settlement 28 agreement covers pre-1972 recordings beyond those owned by the Major Labels

1 (which are the only recordings for which they seek damages in the Coattail Action).
2 Indeed, according to Sirius XM, the agreement also covers recordings that are 3 “owned or controlled” by the Major Labels and those that the Major Labels “own, 4 control or otherwise have the right to contract with.”

5 As the Supreme Court has held, terms connected by the disjunctive “or” 6 ordinarily have separate meanings. Reiter v. Sonotone Corp., 442 U.S. 330, 339
7 (1979); United States v. Woods, 134 S.Ct. 557, 567 (2013). Faced with the same 8 “owned or controlled” language, the court in Armkel, LLC v. Pfizer Inc., 2005 U.S.
9 Dist. LEXIS 22877, *38 (D.N.J. Sept. 29, 2005) stated the obvious:

10 [T]he disjunctive “or” between the words “owned” and 11 “controlled” suggests that the parties intended the words to have 12 different meanings and for either concept to apply. The word 13 “owned” clearly requires ownership or possession; however, the 14 word “control” is broader and does not necessarily implicate
15 ownership. When an entity owns something, it has a property 16 right in that object; however, an entity is able to control – direct 17 or regulate – something without owning it.

18 See also Huffman v. City of Poway, 84 Cal. App. 4th 975 (2000) (holding that 19 because statutory language “property owned or controlled by the public entity” is in 20 the disjunctive, those terms means different things); In re Cabrera, 96 B.R. 304, 305 21 (Bankr. D. Mont. 1988) (relying on the plain meaning of the word “or” to conclude 22 that statutory language was in the disjunctive).

23 That Sirius XM wanted the settlement agreement to cover more than just the 24 pre-1972 recordings directly owned by Major Labels is not surprising and fully 25 explains the use of the word “or” to describe the recordings being settled. But this 26 has now resulted in a settlement agreement that impacts the rights of Class members 27 other than the Major Labels, as the Major Labels purported to settle claims for the 28 use of pre-1972 recordings owned by these other Class members, thereby usurping

1 the role of the Court and Class Counsel. That alone should have caused Sirius XM
2 to recognize that the agreement required the involvement of the Court and Class 3 Counsel. However, doing that would run counter to Sirius XM’s goal of fracturing 4 the Class, destroying the leverage of the absent Class members to obtain a 5 settlement on similar terms, and preventing Class Counsel from receiving a fee. The 6 requirements of Rule 23 are not that easily manipulated. Therefore, the Court 7 should enter an order restraining and enjoining Sirius XM from paying the 8 Settlement Fund to the Major Labels and instead requiring it be paid into an interest-9 bearing account under the control and direction of this Court until these matters can 10 be adjudicated by the Court.

11 V. BASED ON THE COMMON FUND AND SUBSTANTIAL BENEFIT 12 DOCTRINES, CLASS COUNSEL IS ENTITLED TO THEIR FEE.

13 It cannot be disputed that the Major Labels’ settlement, on their own behalf 14 and on behalf of the owners of recordings they “control or otherwise have the right 15 to contract with,” resulted entirely and directly from the work of Class Counsel.
16 Yet, to obtain the benefit of that work without paying for it (and, thus, reaping 17 where they have not sown), the Major Labels entered into a settlement that 18 compensates them and excludes Class Counsel. Even if their settlement is not 19 considered a class settlement (and it should be given its descriptions by Sirius XM), 20 a percentage of it is still owed to Class Counsel pursuant to the “common fund” and 21 “substantial benefit” doctrines. Mills v. Elec. Auto-Lite Co., 396 U.S. 375, 391-92 22 (1970); Alyeska Pipeline Serv. Co. v. Wilderness Soc’y, 421 U.S. 240, 275 (1975).
23 Those doctrines are grounded in equity and exist to protect against the unjust 24 enrichment that would result if the Major Labels were permitted to free ride.

25 A. Attorney Fees Are Appropriately Awarded Where a Litigant’s Efforts
26 Create a Common Fund or Confer a Substantial Benefit on a Class.

27 1. The Supreme Court Has Approved Both Doctrines.

28

1 The common fund doctrine is “part of the historic equity jurisdiction of the 2 federal courts,” Sprague, 307 U.S. at 164, which contemplates “fair and just 3 allowances for expenses and counsel fees.” Trustees v. Greenough, 105 U.S. 527, 4 536 (1881). It springs from the equitable notion that “persons who obtain the 5 benefit of a lawsuit without contributing to its cost are unjustly enriched at the 6 successful litigant’s expense.” Boeing, 444 U.S. at 478 (1980); see also Chem. Bank
7 v. City of Seattle, 19 F.3d 1291, 1300 (9th Cir. 1994) (explaining that the common 8 fund doctrine negates unjust enrichment by mandating that “those who benefit from 9 the creation of the fund should share the wealth with the lawyers whose skill and 10 effort helped create it.”). To be sure, “[s]ince the Supreme Court’s decision in Cent.
11 R.R. & Banking Co. of Ga. v. Pettus, 113 U.S. 116 [(1885)], it is well settled that the 12 lawyer who creates a common fund is allowed an extra reward, beyond that which 13 he has arranged with his client, so that he might share the wealth of those upon 14 whom he has conferred a benefit.” Paul, Johnson, Alston & Hunt v. Graultry, 886 15 F.2d 268, 271 (9th Cir. 1989) (emphasis in original). The common fund doctrine is 16 further complemented by the equitable supervisory authority that Fed. R. Civ. Proc.
17 Rule 23 grants federal courts in class actions. See 7B Wright & A. Miller, Fed.
18 Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 1803 (3d ed).

19 The common fund doctrine was first recognized in Greenough when the 20 plaintiff bondholder benefited other bondholders by successfully having a receiver 21 appointed over a trust and unwinding several of its conveyances after the trust’s 22 assets had been improperly dissipated. The Supreme Court found that the plaintiff 23 should be reimbursed for his efforts out of the recovered fund, stating:

24 It would be very hard on [the plaintiff] to turn him away without 25 any allowance except the paltry sum which could be taxed under 26 the fee-bill. It would not only be unjust to him, but it would give 27 to the other parties entitled to participate in the benefits of the 28 fund an unfair advantage. He has worked for them as well as for

1           himself; and if he cannot be reimbursed out of the fund itself, 2           they ought to contribute their due proportion of the expenses 3           which he has fairly incurred. To make them a charge upon the 4           fund is the most equitable way of securing such contribution.
5 105 U.S. at 532. Thus, the Court held, when a common fund is created, the 6 beneficiaries of the fund are liable for the costs of its production.

7           Three years later, Greenough was expanded in Pettus to permit an award of 8 fees not to a successful plaintiff, but rather to plaintiff’s counsel directly, payable 9 out of a fund recovered for a beneficiary class. Pettus involved a class action that 10 was filed to secure repayment of bonds owned by clients of the petitioning attorneys 11 and other similarly-situated unsecured creditors. The Court held that the plaintiffs’ 12 lawyers could petition for fees directly from a common fund created through their 13 efforts because they had a cause of action for such an award independent of any 14 similar reimbursement rights held by their clients. Pettus, 113 U.S. at 125–27. The 15 Court found it irrelevant that the absent class members lacked fee contracts with 16 plaintiffs’ attorneys, as they were aware of the lawsuit’s class action nature and 17 “every ground of justice” required reasonable payment by those who “accepted the 18 fruits” of other people’s labors. Id. at 126-27. To assure payment of their fee 19 award, the attorneys were granted a lien on a percentage of the assets that were 20 salvaged by the Court’s decree for the benefit of the class of creditors. Id. at 128.

21           The common fund doctrine was expanded yet again in Sprague, in which the 22 plaintiff sued a bank for disbursement of certain bonds that secured money she had 23 deposited in a trust fund. 307 U.S. at 162. The Supreme Court recognized that the 24 lawsuit, through the principle of stare decisis, “established the claims of fourteen 25 other trusts” pertaining to the same bonds. Id. at 166. It further found that even 26 though the plaintiff “neither purported to sue for a class nor formally established by 27 litigation a fund available to the class,” its discretion allowed it to grant her an 28 award from the bonds’ disbursement. Id. The Court reasoned that “when such a

1 fund is for all practical purposes created for the benefit of others, the formalities of 2 the litigation – the absence of an avowed class suit or the creation of a fund...hardly 3 touch the power of equity in doing justice as between a party and the beneficiaries
 4 of his litigation.” Id. at 167. And recently, in US Airways, Inc. v. McCutchen, 133 5 S.Ct. 1537, 1550 (2013), the Supreme Court reaffirmed that “[t]his Court has 6 ‘recognized consistently’ that someone ‘who recovers a common fund for the 7 benefit of persons other than himself’ is due ‘a reasonable attorney’s fee from the 8 fund as whole.’ [Citation]. We have understood that rule as ‘reflect[ing] the 9 traditional practice in courts of equity.’ [Citation.]. And we have applied it in a wide 10 range of circumstances as part of our inherent authority. [Citations].”

11 As the common fund doctrine continued to expand, it also gave rise to a new 12 equitable theory by which to grant a fee award: the substantial benefit doctrine.
 13 That doctrine permits reimbursement where a litigant “has conferred a substantial 14 benefit on the members of an ascertainable class and where the court’s jurisdiction 15 over the subject matter of the suit makes possible an award that will operate to 16 spread the costs proportionately among them.” Mills, 396 U.S. at 393-94. In Mills, 17 a shareholder prevailed in an action to set aside a corporate merger that violated
 18 securities fraud rules, and the Court thereafter shifted the shareholder’s attorney fees 19 to the corporation because the suit conferred a substantial benefit on all 20 shareholders, who benefited from vindication of the law. Id. at 395. By requiring 21 the payment of attorney fees from the corporate treasury, all beneficiaries were 22 taxed their proportionate share of the costs through lowered dividends. See also, 23 Hall v. Cole, 412 U.S. 1, 6 (1973) (holding that shifting a plaintiff union member’s 24 counsel fees to the other members he vindicated the free speech rights of is justified 25 “because ‘to allow the others to obtain full benefit from the plaintiff’s efforts 26 without contributing equally to the litigation expenses would be to enrich the others 27 unjustly at the plaintiff’s expense.’” (quoting Mills, 396 U.S. at 392).

28 2. The Ninth Circuit Routinely Relies On Both Doctrines.

1 The common fund and substantial benefit doctrines also have a long history in 2 the Ninth Circuit, which has consistently applied them in cases where a litigant’s 3 efforts “create, discover, increase or preserve a fund to which others also have a 4 claim,” or have “conferred a substantial benefit on the members of an ascertainable 5 class.” Vincent, 557 F.2d at 768 n.7, 769; see also Reiser v. Del Monte Properties
6 Co., 605 F.2d 1135, 1139-40 (9th Cir. 1979) (noting that the doctrines apply outside 7 class actions suits); Lewis v. Anderson, 692 F.2d 1267, 1271-72 (9th Cir. 1982) 8 (finding substantial benefit even where no actual fund has been created).

9 In Vincent, after a midflight collision killed the occupants of a commercial 10 airliner, the family of one of the decedents filed suit in the Central District of 11 California, seeking to act as class counsel. Id. at 762. Following this filing, other 12 litigants initiated their own separate suits related to the accident. Id. at 762-63. The 13 original claimant’s litigation was used as the vehicle by which to globally determine 14 the defendant’s liability, and the District Court consequently ordered all class 15 members (including those represented by their own attorneys) to deposit a fixed 16 percentage of any judgment or settlement they received with the clerk of the court to 17 cover class counsel’s attorney fees. Id. at 763-64. The District Court ultimately 18 awarded the fund on deposit to class counsel, holding that the work and efforts of 19 class counsel benefited all claimants. Id. at 765. Affirming the District Court’s 20 award, the Ninth Circuit identified seven elements of a common fund:

21 (1) “the original client’s attorney’s fees are not shifted to – or the 22 attorney’s personal claim for an extra fee is not lodged against – 23 the adversary-losing party; rather, fees are shifted to third parties, 24 people viewed as beneficiaries of the fund in some way”; (2) “no 25 contractual relationship exists between the original attorney and 26 the third parties”; (3) “the beneficiaries are expected to pay 27 litigation costs in proportion to the benefits that the litigation 28 produced for them”; (4) “as a general rule, if the third parties hire

1           their own attorneys and appear in the litigation, the original 2           claimant cannot shift to them his attorney’s fees”; (5) “the third 3           parties are not personally liable for the litigation costs. Any 4           claim must be satisfied out of the fund”; (6) “there must exist 5           some identifiable assets on which a court can impose a charge”; 6           and (7) “the court can legitimately exercise authority or control 7           over the asset.”

8 Id. at 770. The Ninth Circuit found that all of the elements were satisfied with the 9 exception of the fourth one, which it held could be disregarded because there are 10 problems with allowing third parties to “purchase immunity” by hiring separate 11 counsel. Id. at 771. “[W]here the contributions of the original or lead attorneys and 12 the attorneys hired by the ‘stranger’ beneficiaries are unequal,” an exception to the 13 element is warranted for reasons “identical to the purpose of the broader common 14 fund doctrine itself: avoidance of unjust enrichment.” Id. at 771-72.

15                           3. California Courts Have Also Approved Both Doctrines.

16           Like federal courts, California courts also rely on the common fund and 17 substantial benefit doctrines to award attorney’s fees. Tract 19051 Homeowners 18 Assn. v. Kemp, 60 Cal. 4th 1135, 1142 n.2 (2015).<sup>6</sup> The common fund doctrine was 19 first approved in Fox v. Hale & Norcross S. M. Co., 108 Cal. 475 (1895) and has 20 been applied by California courts ever since. Serrano v. Priest, 20 Cal. 3d 25, 35 21 (1977). The primary requirement under California’s common fund doctrine is that 22 “the activities of the party awarded fees have resulted in the preservation or 23 recovery of a certain or easily calculable sum of money – out of which sum or fund 24

25 <sup>6</sup> California’s common fund doctrine is actually broader than the Ninth Circuit’s, 26 entitling a litigant to an award even where his “success” is limited to operating as “a 27 catalyst motivating defendants to provide the primary relief sought” or “an 28 important right is vindicated by activating defendants to modify their behavior.”
Graham v. DaimlerChrysler Corp., 34 Cal. 4th 553, 589 (2004) (citations omitted).

1 the fees are to be paid.” Long Beach City Emps. Assn. v. City of Long Beach, 120
 2 Cal. App. 3d 950, 960 (1981) (quotation marks and citation omitted).
 3 Considerations underlying the doctrine include “fairness to the successful litigant,” 4 “correlative prevention of an unfair advantage to the others who are entitled to share 5 in the fund,” and “encouragement of the attorney for the successful litigant.” City &
 6 City of San Francisco v. Sweet, 12 Cal. 4th 105, 111 (1995).

7 California’s take on the substantial benefit doctrine is also similar to the 8 federal version. See Lewis, 692 F.2d at 1270; Woodland Hills Residents Assn., Inc.
 9 v. City Council, 23 Cal. 3d 917, 944 (1979). “It applies when no common fund has 10 been created, but a concrete and significant benefit, although nonmonetary in nature, 11 has nonetheless been conferred on an ascertainable class.” Consumer Cause, Inc. v.
 12 Mrs. Gooch’s Natural Food Mkts., Inc., 127 Cal. App. 4th 387, 397 (2005). As 13 such, the doctrine permits a court to grant a “contingent, percentage award” of fees 14 even in the absence of an existing “fund” from which to draw upon. Knoff v. City
 15 etc. of S.F., 1 Cal. App. 3d 184, 203 (1969). Similar to the common fund doctrine, it 16 “rests on the principle that those who have been ‘unjustly enriched’ at another’s 17 expense should under some circumstances bear their fair share of the costs entailed 18 in producing the benefits they have obtained.” Woodland Hills, 23 Cal. 3d at 943.

19 B. An Award of Attorney Fees Is Appropriate In This Case.

20 1. A Common Fund Was Created.

21 It is indisputable that Flo & Eddie helped to “create, discover, increase or 22 preserve” the Settlement Fund, as the efforts of Class Counsel were not only 23 instrumental in establishing Sirius XM’s liability, they were the cause-in-fact of the 24 settlement. See Vincent, 557 F.2d at 771. Indeed, Flo & Eddie’s litigation against 25 Sirius XM resulted in the first ruling in California specifically addressing and 26 establishing a performance right in pre-1972 recordings. That litigation also 27 established Sirius XM’s liability and the dismissal of Sirius XM’s affirmative 28 defenses (Dkts. 117, 225), certification of the putative class itself (Dkt. 225), and

1 endorsement of a damages model based on Sirius XM’s gross revenues (Id.), 2 whereas (to quote counsel for Sirius XM) “[a]ll [the major labels] had is a ruling in 3 their favor on a jury instruction.” (Geller Decl. ¶ 9, Ex. 2 [May 22, 2015, Hearing
 4 Transcript 21:7-8]). In fact, before this Court found for Flo & Eddie on liability, 5 the Major Labels were on the verge of losing in state court on that very same issue.
 6 The Major Labels then used this Court’s ruling to reverse their impending loss, and 7 subsequently all of Flo & Eddie’s rulings to obtain the settlement from Sirius XM.

8 This case could not present a clearer common fund, as “(1) the class of 9 beneficiaries is sufficiently identifiable, (2) the benefits can be accurately traced, 10 and (3) the fee can be shifted with some exactitude to those benefiting.” Paul, 886 11 F.2d at 271 (citing In re Petition of Hill, 775 F.2d 1037, 1041 (9th Cir. 1985)).
 12 Here, the beneficiaries of the fund are the Major Labels and other Class members 13 whose recordings they “control or otherwise have the right to contract for,” the 14 benefits they received from Flo & Eddie can be clearly and accurately traced 15 through the litigation record before this Court, and any fee award to Flo & Eddie can 16 be borne by the Major Labels based on their respective shares of the common fund, 17 which are mathematically ascertainable. Nothing more is required. Id.

18 Use of the common fund doctrine would also comport with the considerations 19 articulated by the Ninth Circuit in Vincent. (1) The award would shift Flo & 20 Eddie’s costs not to Sirius XM, but rather to the Major Labels as beneficiaries of the 21 fund. See Paul, 886 F.2d at 271; Vincent, 557 F.2d at 770; Winslow v. Harold G.
 22 Ferguson Corp., 25 Cal. 2d 274, 283-84 (1944). (2) Flo & Eddie have no
 23 contractual relationship with the Major Labels for compensation. Vincent, 557 F.2d 24 at 770. (3) The Major Labels would be expected to pay the award in proportion to 25 their shares of the common fund. Id. (4) The Major Labels retention of separate 26 counsel is irrelevant given their ultimate reliance on Flo & Eddie for every factual 27 and legal determination enabling their settlement. See Walsh v. Woods, 187 Cal.
 28 App. 3d 1273, 1278 (1986) (“mere retention of separate counsel is not enough to

1 defeat the common fund doctrine.”); Vincent, 557 F.2d at 771-72. (5) The claim 2 would be satisfied from the Major Labels’ settlement with Sirius XM rather than 3 upon any personal liability. Vincent, 557 F.2d at 770. (6) The fund created by 4 Sirius XM to settle with the Major Labels constitutes an identifiable asset on which 5 the Court can impose a charge. Id. at 770. (7) The Court can legitimately exercise
 6 authority or control over the asset, as it maintains jurisdiction over both Sirius XM
 7 as the defendant in this action and the party that controls the fund. Id. at 770, 774 8 n.15; see also Alan Hirsch and Diane Sheehey, Awarding Attorneys’ Fees and 9 Managing Fee Litigation 68 (2d ed. 2005) (noting jurisdiction over a common fund 10 is “generally satisfied by jurisdiction over a party that controls the fund”).

11 2. Substantial Benefits Were Conferred.

12 It is also indisputable that Flo & Eddie’s litigation conferred substantial 13 benefits to the Major Labels and other owners of recordings they “control or 14 otherwise have the right to contract for,” by confirming the existence of a public 15 performance right in pre-1972 sound recordings. Prior to this case, “the facts that 16 would prompt a court to rule on th[at] issue ha[d] simply never been presented in a 17 California court,” creating what this Court called a “judicial void” on the subject.
 18 (Dkt. 117, p. 7) Indeed, according to Sirius XM, this void indicated that California 19 law had never provided copyright owners with an exclusive right of public 20 performance. (Dkt. 106, p. 9) Flo & Eddie’s litigation was both the first to 21 recognize such a right existed and was instrumental in persuading the state court to 22 join in that assessment. As a result, the Major Labels possessed a newly validated 23 property right under California law as well as a liability ruling against Sirius XM.

24 Bringing about the foregoing could not be anything other than a “substantial 25 service” to the owners of pre-1972 sound recordings, making applicability of the 26 substantial benefit doctrine obvious. Hall, 412 U.S. at 7. The litigation conferred a 27 substantial benefit on the members of an ascertainable class (see e.g. Dkt. 225, pp. 8- 28 12), and the court’s jurisdiction over the subject matter makes possible an award that

1 will operate to spread the costs proportionately among the class. Southerland v.
2 Int'l Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union, Local 8, 845 F.2d 796, 798 (9th 3 Cir. 1987); Woodland Hills, 23 Cal. 3d at 943-44. Indeed, the damage model 4 developed in this case makes it possible for each member's recovery to be 5 proportionally calculated and the Court's jurisdiction over the Class makes it 6 possible to spread the costs of any such award proportionate to that recovery. (Id., 7 pp. 20-23) Accordingly, even in the absence of a common fund, the Major Labels 8 would still be required to compensate Class Counsel for benefits conferred through 9 Flo & Eddie's litigation. Consumer Cause, 127 Cal. App. 4th at 397.

10 VI. A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION IS WARRANTED.

11 Because the Major Labels' settlement with Sirius XM circumvented Class 12 Counsel and purportedly settled class claims by sweeping in pre-1972 recordings 13 owned by other class members whose recordings they "control or otherwise have the 14 right to contract with," and because the imminent payment of the Settlement Fund 15 threatens to dissipate the common fund from which Class Counsel is entitled to a fee 16 award, good cause exists for the court to exercise its discretion to lift the current 17 stay, Sierra Med. Servs. Alliance v. Maxwell-Jolly, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 97363, 18 *7 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2011), and to issue a temporary restraining order and an 19 injunction enjoining the payment of the Settlement Fund to the Major Labels and 20 requiring those funds be paid into an interest-bearing account under the control and 21 direction of this Court. See Savoie v. Merchants Bank, 84 F.3d 52, 58 (2d Cir.
22 1996). This type of injunctive relief is available under both the All Writs Act (28 23 U.S.C. § 1651), which permits federal courts to "issue all writs necessary or 24 appropriate in aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and 25 principles of law," as well as under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. Rule 65.<sup>7</sup> The preservation of 27 <sup>7</sup> Because such an injunction would not stay the proceedings in the Coattail Action, 28 but merely require that the Settlement Funds be preserved under the jurisdiction of 1 the status quo and preventing the irreparable loss of rights are critical here, which is 2 exactly what prohibitory injunctive relief is designed to accomplish. Sierra On- 3 Line, Inc. v. Phoenix Software, Inc., 739 F.2d 1415, 1422 (9th Cir. 1984).

4 The elements of injunctive relief are not in dispute. The party seeking a 5 preliminary injunction must establish a likelihood of success on the merits, that 6 irreparable harm is likely in the absence of preliminary relief, that the balance of 7 equities tips in favor of the moving party, and that an injunction is in the public 8 interest. Winter v. NRDC, 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008).<sup>8</sup> Flo & Eddie has established all 9 of these elements.

10 With respect to the likelihood of success on the merits, Flo & Eddie has made 11 the necessary showing two different ways. First, by purporting to settle with Sirius
 12 XM as to sound recordings it does not own, the Major Labels have impermissibly 13 usurped the rights of other members of the Class and are attempting to settle those 14 members' claims without court approval as required by Rule 23. Even outside of 15 the class context, "[p]arties who choose to resolve litigation through settlement may 16 not dispose of the claims of a third party...without that party's agreement." Local 17 No. 93, Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters, AFL-CIO C.L.C. v. City of Cleveland, 478 U.S.
 18 501, 529 (1986); see E.E.O.C. v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc., 897 F.2d 1499, 1506 19 (9th Cir. 1990) (A settlement "cannot prejudice the rights of persons who are 20 strangers to the proceeding, even though they may have actual knowledge of the 21 settlement or the underlying litigation."). Second, under both the common fund and 22

23 this Court until third party claims to them are resolved, the Anti-Injunction Act (28 24 U.S.C. § 2283) is not implicated by Flo & Eddie's application or request. See 25 Iantosca v. Step Plan Servs., Inc., 604 F.3d 24, 32 (1st Cir. 2010).

26 <sup>8</sup> The court may apply a sliding scale test in its application of these elements, under 27 which "the elements of the preliminary injunction test are balanced, so that a 28 stronger showing of one element may offset a weaker showing of another." Alliance for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1131 (9th Cir. 2011).

1 substantial benefit doctrines, Flo & Eddie has established Class Counsel’s 2 entitlement to a portion of the Settlement Fund for its fees. Flo & Eddie’s litigation 3 efforts resulted in and were the cause-in-fact of (a) creating, discovering, increasing 4 or preserving the Settlement Fund, and (b) obtaining judicial recognition of an 5 extraordinarily valuable property right, thereby bestowing clear benefits upon an 6 ascertainable class that can bear the fee award (out of the recovered fund or 7 otherwise) proportionate to the benefits each member received. Long Beach, 120 8 Cal. App. 3d at 960; Vincent, 557 F.2d at 771; Paul, 886 F.2d at 271.

9 Flo & Eddie has also clearly demonstrated irreparable harm in the absence of 10 an injunction. Sirius XM intends to disburse the Settlement Fund to the Major 11 Labels “on or before July 15, 2015,” which threatens to dissipate funds owed to 12 third party sound recording owners and to Class Counsel. Such risk of dissipation 13 has been repeatedly held to constitute irreparable harm warranting injunctive relief.
 14 See, e.g., Harley-Davidson Credit Corp. v. Monterey Motorcycles, Inc., 2012 U.S.
 15 Dist. LEXIS 53192, *7-8 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 16, 2012) (citing In re Focus Media Inc., 16 387 F.3d 1077 (9th Cir. 2004)); Kremen v. Cohen, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 141273, 17 *19 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 7, 2011); Thomas, Head & Greisen Emples. Trust v. Buster, 95 18 F.3d 1449, 1456 (9th Cir. 1996).

19 The balance of equities also tips sharply in favor of granting an injunction in 20 this case. “To determine which way the balance of the hardships tips, a court must 21 identify the possible harm caused by the preliminary injunction against the 22 possibility of the harm caused by not issuing it.” Univ. of Haw. Prof'l Assembly v.
 23 Cayetano, 183 F.3d 1096, 1108 (9th Cir. 1999). Here, while the harms in denying 24 the injunction include the wrongful extinguishing of third party rights and 25 prejudicing Class Counsel’s ability to collect fees owed to it under both federal and 26 state law, the only conceivable hardship in granting the injunction is that the Majors 27 Label will have to wait slightly longer to receive their proper share of the Settlement 28 Fund. See Johnson v. Couturier, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 82902, *13 (E.D. Cal.

1 Sept. 26, 2008) (granting injunction and noting that the "funds to which the 2 individual [claimants] would be entitled upon a favorable judgment are not going 3 anywhere"). The balance thus clearly tips in Flo & Eddie’s favor.

4 Finally, the public interest is squarely behind Flo & Eddie in this case.
5 Indeed, the Major Labels’ attempt to settle claims of other Class members and to 6 deprive Class Counsel of compensation is both unfair and violative of public policy.
7 California has taken a strong public policy stance to provide both fairness towards, 8 and encouragement of counsel for, a successful litigant, as well as prevention of an 9 unfair advantage to those who benefit from counsel’s work by ensuring they 10 contribute to the costs of its production. Sweet, 12 Cal. 4th at 111; Serrano, 20 Cal.
11 3d at 38. These considerations are vindicated under both state and federal law by 12 preventing the Major Labels from obtaining the benefit of Flo & Eddie’s lawsuit, 13 which produced the property right and liability rulings upon which their settlement 14 is predicated, without contributing to its cost. Boeing, 444 U.S. at 478; Woodland 15 Hills, 23 Cal. 3d at 943; Vincent, 557 F.2d at 772.

16 VI. CONCLUSION.

17 In light of the foregoing, Flo & Eddie’s ex parte Application should be 18 granted in full and the orders requested issued by the Court accordingly.
